

ChatLab (Children and Technology Lab) University of Sussex

The continuing link between ChatLab and Woodlands Meed, developed over a number of years, has resulted in several Post-Graduate psychology studies conducting autism-related research with our students on both sites.

These projects add to the body of knowledge about autism and help those with the condition and those who care for them.